Project Title: Women Empowerment in Rural Sub-Saharan Africa through Capacity Building and Training of the Alumni Engagement Innovative Fund (AEIF). I lead a team scholars ranging from University Professors, Fulbrighters and other scholars (First most voted project idea in African and 11th worldwide in 2011) to serve over 400 women entrepreneurs living in Morogoro, Iringa and Singida regions of Tanzania. 14.2. May 2016 to November 2016

Project Title: Realising women from carrying water buckets on their heads. In an attempt to address the critical issue using my community development skills developed through study and research, I managed to bring piped water to over 60 inhabitants to a neighbourhood of over 60 households located at Tushikamane Street in Morogoro municipality Tanzania. Apart from using community development skills, I provided the community with a loan worthy Tanzanian shillings 1.4 million ($700) of which Tshs 400,000 was donated by a fellow Fulbrighter Prof. Shannon Risk (at the time she was an Associate Professor at Niagara University, New York, USA). This loan and community development skills served a catalyst to make community members to raise a sum of nearly shillings 5.2 million to bring a major 4 inches PVC pipe covering 354 meters from the nearest tap water sources (with 1.5 inches branches covering 300 meters) with the aim to ensure that each of the households in the neighbourhood gets tap water. There will be more than 200 household beneficiaries of the project). The community members have already paid 1.2 million shillings and tap water has been brought in the neighbourhood for households to install.
